

Lipka (from left to right): Felix Landis & Etienne Maître.

LIPKA

BIOGRAPHY

Spaceship Of Love

Goldon Records / Irascible

Lipka are a duo with a strong profile. On one side Landis, who offers everything he has on stage and on the other hand Maître, the reasonable. Both from Geneva, both radiating with music. Landis and Maître write the type of songs they would like to hear on the radio. They're also good friends, and mostly agree, sometimes don't. That's when things can be tricky, but even that sounds good in Lipka's case.

They can't tell when and where they met. Sometime around 2009 and somewhere in the middle, probably. They reinvent themselves as Lipka and start writing songs in a fog of Lo-Fi, R&B and Pop. After many trials and tribulations, first tracks find their way into daylight in 2013 (from the demo tape into the rotation) and from there, back into the night (the clubs). Spaceship Of Love now compiles their musical work of the past years onto one album.

The Spaceship Of Love is steered by a lawyer and a translator. Together they travel through galaxies, meet beauties and beasts, have tons of fun and turn up the Lipka sound system as loud as they can. Maître knows: at Lake Geneva, nothing goes without bass and booms. That's why he still throws dancehall parties where Landis dances smoothly through the night.

Some songs might sound light, but Lipka are everything but superficial and polished mainstream. Anyone who doubts this must see the two incorrigibles live on stage. Etienne Maître (sounds) from Geneva and Felix Landis (vocals), who moved there from his native town of Zurich. The Swiss Blues Brothers, so to speak.

Spaceship Of Love* is released June 13, 2014.

Photo & Cover Download

www.goldon.ch

Media: Guido Rösli | guido@goldon.ch

Booking: thisislipka@gmail.com

Band Website

www.facebook.com/LIPKAofficial

Irascible (distribution / hard copy)

iMusician Digital (distribution / digital)